The universe of Beyond Dreams has only one goal: to create an oasis of calm and peace in the world. To remind us of what we truly are, as we really are, and to discover who we really are. The world as a point of reference is a very important thing in our culture and in our beliefs. And it also has an effect on our emotions. Look around, everything we know and experience is always contained in one simple point, namely ourselves. Our own point of reference, therefore, is really quite important. Through our own eyes, we see the things and people around us; on the other hand, there are no eyes in the universe that can see other than our own. Through the eyes of the universe, what we know is only what we could find here - we would just have no concept of what we could experience and enjoy. We cannot see other points of view because they are simply not there. On Earth we have been taught to be the observer and to keep calm. We know we are the observer and that we should not intervene in the world around us. And yet, we very often make ourselves lost in it. We see things that are not there. We see ourselves and the other people
