Human beings are both the most common life form in the galaxy, and the only ones with enough brains to wonder about the wider cosmos. A controversial and often feared race, human beings are also the most numerous in the empire. They are a diverse and varied group, from the austere red-glowing Purifiers who live in isolation to the decadent hive-minds of the decadent hedonists. If you encounter one another in the galaxy, you'll find that all humans are different - but that doesn't stop any of them from being very similar! Features: Humanoid Civics and new Origin New ship models Five new ship portraits Three new ship VO sets Three remixed music tracks Six new voices for VIR Two new planets A galactic map where every habitable planet is highlighted Two new "Galaxy" technologies New unit spritesQ: Keep a div centred while the browser resizes Hello and good morning! I have a div, which will not stay on centre of page, so I need to refresh it's css: width:100%; float:center; It works, except for when I resize the page, it positions itself outside the page (near the right border) This is the div code: Point 1 I do not want to use javascript as this is the page used for an extension I am working on. Thanks for any help! A: Unless you have a very good reason for positioning absolutely, you need to set the relative positioning style to the element and then apply float: If you need position: absolute; you can change that to position: relative;. You also need to remember not to set width to 100%, use width: 100%; This is the structure that should work for you:

What's new:

In a time where war is a way of life, adventure is the new norm. A swift strike with extreme force, followed by a rapid but careful withdrawal. No matter the magnitude of the war, it will be played by the rules, with a single goal in mind, to win. In a cold war between two rivals, the country of Song and its forces are currently crushing the southern monsters under their heels. But that is not all that is going on... Summon your finest equipment to participate in the war between the heroes of Song and the southern monsters! Branded as the Peacemaker Gear Set, the Tier 2 gear sets have been balanced to be truly competitive in both the new and classic versions of Insurgency. If you are looking to step up your game, this is a must-have item!

Gear Sets Peacemaker Gear Set - New Era The new Peacemaker Gear Set allows you to participate at the highest level of the war, where it is not uncommon to see multiple opponents on live fire at the same time. Under normal situations, its high value allows it to be a strong counter to all classes, and in combat can cause massive problems to the enemy. While you may join in while not caught within an IAOP, but they will quickly notice you and your gear will become one large target for the enemy. In addition, the black salvage tags will be used for plunder by which they may cause you to be marked for death. As the level 2 gear set, the Peacemaker gear set is also a Tier 3 item. It contains a defensive Radiator upgrade from a Tier 2 kit paired with an anti-infantry minigun. The Peacemaker units are also light, ideal for scouting. They are also interesting due to the fact that you can switch out a peacemaker for another unit, making it a versatile, high quality unit. The Peacemaker has the following stats: Health: 936.8 Attack: 47.19 Defense: 46.96 Speed: 28.11

Peacemaker Grade 2 The Peacemaker unit is an anti-infantry machine able to clear out most other infantry with ease, leaving a very small threat to the enemy. With a total damage cost of 10; you are able to damage opponents on close quarters, removing two full infantry squads from its range. It is an extremely versatile unit,

I've been learning Java for the past 5 years with many of my classes focused on procedural programming. As far as industry jobs go, Java/programmers seem to be over-represented and I'm not sure what that says about myself (or CS in general). As a CS Major with a business oriented background, will I be able to find a job? To what extent am I prepared to start working in the CS field? Edit: I'm a Business Analyst, but I also have about a decade of experience in sys-
