Story Mode In Story Mode, you play as the main character whose goal is to become a detective. In order to solve a murder case, you will investigate clues. You will talk with and arrest individuals in other cities, and exchange information with them. You will talk with detectives about clues related to your murder case, and talk with other individuals who know something about your case. You will have to pay the price of going on a "scout mission" from time to time. The price increases each time you go on a scout mission. If you are successful in solving the case, you will be given the money to buy detective tools. The detective tools cannot be used to solve cases in "Story Mode", but can be used in "Another Mode" (to be detailed in the "Character Creation" section). Story Mode has a total of seven episodes, and each episode has different "clue" values and costs. The player who completes the story will get the highest overall score. Please note that the "quantity" of the detective tools can be increased up to three times. Each person's score is calculated based on the total of the "clues" they have collected, as well as the number of "clues" not resolved. The rate at which the clue quantities are resolved is also important. You will get higher score with the completed story. Scout Missions In Scout Missions, which can be played in "Story Mode", you will face a certain number of "clues" each time. After completing a set number of Scout Missions, your best overall score will be determined. The number of Scout Missions will depend on how many people are playing in the game. In the case that the player who completes the story mode wants to play again as a Scout Missions, he or she can do so, after they finish playing the story mode. The "smoothed play" system is also used in this game. In this type of play, the score and timing at which each player is playing the game changes according to the player's ability. The number of Scout Missions will vary depending on how many people are playing in the game. And, players who have not yet finished the story mode will also be able to play Scout Missions. "Other Modes" "Story Mode" can be played in "Other Modes". In addition to the seven episodes in "Story Mode", there are six episodes in "Other c9d1549cdd with Homebrew Introduction This is a, me and @ccdiazgame did it, but i also did some development on my own. The goal of this project is to create a similiar engine to Simple DirectMedia. You can to, create sprites, animations, and play them by calling the API #Sprite class method Initialize. Installation Actually, this is the biggest part of the whole engine. This means that you should know how to install a GIT setup on your own computer. It is very simple. Actually, everybody should know how to do. You can just open and menu in the corner of your mac. You must have git. To install it, open Xcode and search it. Install it like you do for almost everything. I'm not gonna explain how to use the Xcode again, because I am lazy. Git setup In this tutorial, you will learn how to create a new project, press ctrl+click and copy to git. Also, how to switch between branches. So if you made a change in a branch, and you want to try it for experimenting purposes you need to switch to that branch Your Branches should look like this Did you do this? If not, I highly recommend you to do a git tutorial. Creating a New Project Select what kind of project you want You should have the file extensions You already have a new project but there is not code in. Now you can choose a folder (I personally recommend you to save it in the /Users//Library/Developer/Xcode/DerivedData/New/Build/Products/Debug-iphonesimulator but the documentation states that it should not be in your project directly in the directory of your project). Git Setup You don't need to do anything besides assign your project to a location in git. File->New->File You will probably be asked for a name and so, give it a name After that, switch to the tab "Git" and you should have the green folder "Team" You have to creat a local repository Login from local->Authentication and type a username and a password After that, your branch should look like this Also, create a remote repository Repository->Settings Navigate to "push to remote
