JClaim Serial Key is a platform for developing software using Java. JClaim includes powerful libraries that help in the development of a wide variety of different tools. These libraries are designed to help you quickly develop high-quality software. For example, you could develop your own chat client or an instant messaging client or even a mail client. JClaim is an instant messaging client for IM protocols like AIM, Yahoo! and MSN. JClaim is a Java WebStartable application, which means that it does not require the download of an installer and you will not find a separate setup program. It starts immediately and you can start using the application within minutes. JClaim is fully functional and already has a wide variety of tools. JClaim supports a large variety of IM protocols (YIM, MSN, AIM and Jabber). JClaim supports the following languages: English Czech Hungarian Finnish German Japanese Russian Other languages will be added in the future. JClaim supports the following protocols: Jabber AIM MSN Yahoo! ICQ Jabber is the first instant messaging protocol. The focus is on being easy to use and secure. Jabber does not require special fonts, and supports the simplest operations of messages. Jabber is a multi-protocol framework and supports not only IM, but also data messaging, presence, services, and telephony. AIM is an instant messaging protocol which supports both centralized and decentralized services. It is a multi-protocol framework that supports XMPP, ICQ, and Yahoo!. It has strong encryption, works without any additional software or protocol support and has ability to use existing services provided by ISPs or hosting services. MSN is an instant messaging protocol which supports the oldest instant messaging protocol, SMTP. It can also be used to send mail and in a recent version, has a protocol for transferring files. Yahoo! is an instant messaging protocol which supports simple and intuitive operations. It is also a multi-protocol framework and supports the presence-based services and push-to-talk technologies provided by Yahoo!. ICQ is an instant messaging protocol which has been around since 1990, and as a result has a large user base, although it has not had a significant update for quite some time. It does, however, support Web services and XML, and
